The VFX Supervisor Daily

SATURDAY 14 NOVEMBER 2026

Disguise gets a new owner as US credit hopes and budgets shift

Swipe for the stories →

YAMAHA BUYS DISGUISE

Yamaha to acquire Disguise in expansion of visual technology business

- newscaststudio.com and other outlets

So what: Revenue slipped from £67m to £60m and Unreal-based rivals are pressing at the high end, so expect pricing and support to be tested

US FEDERAL FILM CREDIT

Amid Flight Halt, Trump Meets With Jon Voight to Talk U.S. Film Incentive: 'Get This Done!'

• variety.com

So what: The rebate would cover domestic labour only, and the lame-duck window is short, so treat it as upside rather than a bid assumption

US FEDERAL FILM CREDIT

Trump Says Federal Film Tax Credit Is Gaining Momentum

• hollywoodreporter.com

So what: Trump says momentum is building, a sign the push continues, though the headline alone gives no sign of passage

VENDOR SPLITS AND DELIVERY AT SCALE

Wētā FX Goes Out on 29 Limbs to Create 'Resident Evil' VFX

• awn.com

So what: A practical-first director still needed digital to take over what could not be built, a useful pitch angle for hybrid work

VENDOR SPLITS AND DELIVERY AT SCALE

Ramayana's VFX Verdict : Epic Scale Meets Digital Friction

• outlookindia.com

So what: Delivery at 9,500 shots gets judged in public, and creatures and crowds drew the sharpest criticism, so bid those with care

DARK SLOPE'S VANCOUVER STAGE

Dark Slope Announces New Virtual Production Stage at North Shore Studios in Vancouver

• auganix.org

So what: A December opening gives you a named Vancouver volume to quote, plus a greyboxing lab on site

PRODUCTION VOLUME AND BUDGETS

October Rises 9% as Budgets Skew Smaller

• lbbonline.com

So what: Expect tight budgets on smaller shows now, and big-show bidding to pick up from February, with the UK a strong market

Disguise is heading to Yamaha, which may matter if you specify its stages, though nothing changes at closing.

The VFX Supervisor Daily

Subscribe for the next issue:

thevfxsupervisor.com/daily