Owner-funded VFX, cheaper stages and AI cost claims all bear on your next bid

Swipe for the stories →

UPDATE: MANCHESTER GETS A 44M STAGE

Versa installs 44m long VP stage in Manchester

• broadcastnow.co.uk

So what: A temporary stage of this size, built with a partner for one event, is a model you could price a short volume shoot against

UPDATE: NUKE STAGE HEADS TO THE MAC

Foundry's Nuke Stage macOS Support and Education Licensing

• content-technology.com

So what: Mac-based in-camera VFX would lower the entry cost for small stages and may pull smaller jobs away from big volumes

UPDATE: RAMAYANA IS FUNDED BY ITS VFX OWNER

The $500 million gamble to make India's 'Ramayana' a global phenomenon

• cnn.com

So what: Owner-funded projects with a VFX studio in charge may never reach an open bid, so independents should look for overflow work

AI TOOLS AND COST CLAIMS REACH THE PIPELINE

Avid's Ready to Play brings AI video generation directly into Media Composer

• provideocoalition.com

So what: Editors can generate temp shots and remove items like a boom mic, which may shift what clients expect to see before final VFX

AI TOOLS AND COST CLAIMS REACH THE PIPELINE

Unreal Engine 5.9 divides game devs with an AI-heavy update

• creativebloq.com/3d

So what: Epic says parts of the agent-written code are prototypes, so staying on a stable release for live jobs looks prudent

AI TOOLS AND COST CLAIMS REACH THE PIPELINE

CAA and Ogilvy Unveil ECHO AI Celebrity Ad Platform

• Animation World Network

So what: Ogilvy's new ECHO platform licenses opted-in CAA clients' digital likeness, voice and IP to turn one short shoot into many ad assets, which could squeeze commercial shoot and comp budgets.

AI TOOLS AND COST CLAIMS REACH THE PIPELINE

Virtual Production Finds Its Middle Ground with Blackmagic

• content-technology.com

So what: Neon Vision puts about 80% of its LED work on 2D backgrounds, a cheaper volume option you could offer small clients

CUTS, NEW FUNDING RULES AND CREDITED WORK

Skydance Games Cuts Staff, Scales Back Projects

• Animation World Network

So what: Skydance's cuts follow a $6 billion savings target, so expect tougher vendor terms from a consolidating parent

Virtual production is getting smaller and cheaper, and AI vendors are now putting numbers on savings, which clients may quote back at you.
